Greets John, Anne at Salem

Cheered by thousands in Salem and affectionately greeted aboard the yacht Potomac by his youngest son,

John, and the latter's bride of tomorrow, Anne Lindsay Clark, President Roosevelt came to Nahant today.

His role was that of No. 1 guest at America's No. 1 wedding.

But of all the Roosevelts, gathered from near and far to see tall, handsome young John and his Boston bride go to the altar, the President was the only one today to be sure of rest and relaxation.

He stayed aboard the Potomac, which steamed from Salem to Nahant and dropped anchor a few hundred yards off Tudor wharf.

The Potomac's deck, earlier, was the scene of a meeting with dramatic implications, as lovely, blonde young Anne Clark and the distinguished father of her husband-to-be exchanged greetings.

KISS WAITS DAY

The President didn't kiss Anne, although he looked as though he would like to.

He saved that more intimate salutation to bestow on her when she becomes a Roosevelt tomorrow.

Today's was a warmly affectionate meeting, nevertheless.

John Roosevelt, who had been awaiting his father on the Potomac with Anne and her younger sister, Sally, was too impatient to defer his hellos until the President should come aboard.

FATHER AND SON

So he dashed down to the dock at Salem, running over to the automobile in which his father was sitting.

They shook hands and beamed at each other for a moment in wordless appraisal of each other's health and well-being.

Then John launched into an immediate discussion of the plans which are most on his mind, just at present.

It was several minutes before the President accepted the arm of his bodyguard, Tom Quarters, and was assisted up the specially constructed wooden ramp which led to the Potomac's deck.

JOHN'S HEARTY KISS

There, while the President was shaking hands with Anne and vivacious, dark-haired Sally Clark, John Roosevelt found time to greet his old friend, Miss Marguerite LeHand, the President's personal secretary.

Refusing to follow his father's example in eschewing kissing before press cameras, John gallantly planted a hearty kiss on Miss LeHand's cheek.

IN HIGH HUMOR

For WPA Director Harry Hopkins, who was in the background of the presidential party, John Roosevelt had a lighthearted, "Hi, Harry" and a wave of the hand.

Hopkins waved back a responsive "Hi, John."

John shook hands sedately with his great-uncle, Frederic Delano, also a member of the President's party.

Both John Roosevelt and his father appeared in the highest of spirits.

NO ESCAPING CAMERAS

With an expression of pretended madden recognition, John took a long, deliberate look at the small army of news cameramen who were focussing their lenses on the Potomac from all possible angles.

"Say, you fellows," John shouted, "haven't I seen you somewhere before?"

President Roosevelt turned from his conversation with Anne Clark to add a comment of his own.

"You'll see plenty more of them in the future, Johnny," he said.

WITH SHIPS AND PLANES

Tugs and power boats and yachts, decorated in red-white and blue, tooted their whistles and dipped their ensigns in salute, as the Potomac, bearing the President and his party, steamed out of Salem harbor, bound for Nahant.

Army and coast guard airplanes patrolled the sky over the Roosevelt vessel and speed boats and a navy destroyer conveyed the Potomac along her ocean course.

WAVE IN VAIN

As the Potomac neared Nahant, it passed close by the modernistic, glass-walled seaside home of Anne Clark's mother, Mrs. F. Haven Clark.

Mrs. Clark and Anne's youngest sister, 1-year-old Joan, stood on a balcony and tried to attract attention of the presidential party, waving and hallooing.

The Potomac was farther away than it appeared, however, and no one aboard the yacht recognized Mrs. Clark or Joan.

A crowd estimated at about 4000 persons assembled at the Marine street railroad yards, Salem, where

It's Johnny And Anne to The Family

The Roosevelt newlyweds will be known in the family as "Johnny and Anne."

"Johnny" is the nickname of tall John Roosevelt, who weds Anne Clark at Nahant tomorrow.

It's convenient, too, to prevent confusion with John and Anne—the President's daughter, Anna, and her husband, John Boettiger, of Seattle.

Airplanes, trains, yachts and autos were kept busy bringing Roosevelts to Boston, Salem and Nahant for the wedding of the President's youngest son.

First arrivals in Boston were Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., and his wife, the former Ethel duPont. They came by airplane from New York and were taken by auto to Manchester, where they are house guests of Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel Winthrop.

James Roosevelt came by airplane from Washington, going directly to his own home in Framingham.

As the President's special train was bringing him into Salem today Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, his wife, was arriving at South Station aboard the Federal Express from Washington.

With her came her son Elliott and daughter, Anna, Elliott's wife, Ruth, and Anna's husband, John Boettiger. The Boettigers had boarded the train at New York.

Meantime, the President arrived in Salem, on his special train, and was whisked by auto to Salem Terminal pier, through streets lined by cheering throngs.

At the pier, the President went aboard the Potomac, where his son John, the latter's fiancée, Anne Clark, and Anne's sister Sally greeted him.

Mrs. Sara Delano Roosevelt, the President's mother, was due to arrive by train in Boston today, accompanied by her grandchildren, Eleanor and Curtis Dall.

First Lady Not Sad Tells Boston 'Anne Fine'

By ANN MARSTERS

When America's first mother sees her last chick depart tomorrow, arm-in-arm with his bride, the mother will have no regrets and will feel no loneliness.

She—of course, she is Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt—said so smilingly in her Hotel Statler suite today after traveling up from Washington to attend tomorrow's nuptials for Son John and Anne Lindsay Clark.

One by one she has seen her sons and her daughter marry and flit away, some to far corners of the land where they had new interests and new pursuits.

But never has Mrs. Roosevelt, she confided, had time to be lonely and she does not expect to be lonely with the departure of John, her last born.

IN HER BLUE GOWN

There will be only pride — no mistiness — as the First Lady watches her son move over to join his approaching bride at altar of old Union Church in Nahant.

And for the occasion, she revealed, the President's wife has bought a new dress. It is of dark blue net over a light blue slip.

She does not intend to wear any corsage.

"No, I am not excited about the wedding," she said in answer to a question. "I'm not a very excitable person, I guess. I'm just delighted over it."

"I think Anne is a very sweet girl, one of the finest."

It is regrettable, of course, that she and Johnny have received so much publicity. It is hard on young people, but I know they realize that there is nothing personal in such publicity and that it is merely because of their position.

GIVES NO ADVICE

"No, I have not given Anne and Johnny any advice about how to be happily married. I'm not given to giving advice. Oh, of course, I may give some out in general, but I never give it out individually."

"All young people should work out the course of their own lives for their own happiness."

"No, I really don't care if Anne takes an active interest in any sort of public or political life or activity. I do think, however, that Anne, as well as every citizen, should be interested in her citizenship, which means a real knowledge of one's own community and what is happening in it."

Mrs. Roosevelt, incidentally she wore today a blue and white crepe silk dress—said that she would leave Boston shortly after the wedding tomorrow and go to the Roosevelt family home in Hyde Park, N. Y.

SPEAKS FOR SELF

Asked if she would leave with the President, she smiled and said:

"I cannot speak for anybody but myself."

With her during the interview were her daughter, Mrs. Anna Boettiger, and her husband, John Boettiger, newspaper publisher.

A short time later Mr. and Mrs. James Roosevelt and Miss Barbara Cushing, sister of Mrs. Roosevelt, arrived at the suite, and the Roosevelts prepared to motor to Nahant for an afternoon visit with Anne and Johnny.

Along John's Bridal Path

The President's wife had to borrow a nickel from a secret service man when she made a telephone call from a pay booth at South Station, upon her arrival in Boston today. There was apparently some trouble in getting the call through, and before it was completed Mrs. Roosevelt owed gallant G-men, not one, but several 5-cent pieces.

A veteran traveler, who usually keeps her baggage to a minimum, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt arrived in Boston with four hatboxes and two handbags, her array of luggage apparently a concession to the rule that one simply must have changes of costume at a wedding party.

Swathed in a huge apron, his face aglow, "Patay" Mazzuchelli was No. 1 cook in the basement of the Clark home at Nahant. He is responsible for all food and refreshments to be served the 800 guests at the cottage and at the Nahant Tennis Club tomorrow. He even nibbles crackers submitted for "cocktail snacks."

On orders from the secret service, newspaper photographers used "cellophane jackets" over flash bulbs when making pictures of the President. He is wary of exploding bulbs which, on several occasions in his jaunts around the nation, have narrowly missed his eyes.

John's Bridal Rehearsed As Anne Looks on

By MARJORIE McBRIDE

With members of the First Family of the land gathered from far corners of the nation, the stage was set for three pre-nuptial activities tonight—the eve of tomorrow's marriage of John Roosevelt and Anne Lindsay Clark.

All principals excepting the bride-to-be prepared to take part in a 5 p. m. wedding rehearsal at historic Union Church in Nahant.

Afterwards, Anne, John and the attendants will return to the Clark home and dress for a dinner and party aboard the presidential yacht Potomac in Nahant harbor with President and Mrs. Roosevelt as host and hostess.

MIDNIGHT PARTY

Transportation to and from the Presidential yacht will be provided in Coast Guard cutters from Nahant's Tudor wharf.

President or No President, Jupe Lurks

The local weatherman's big boss, President Roosevelt, is in Massachusetts today, but strive as he might the official forecaster at the Federal Building just couldn't guarantee a day of sunshine for him.

Nor could the meteorological expert assure real June skies for the wedding tomorrow of John Roosevelt and Anne Clark at Nahant.

The best the forecaster could do was to promise brighter sunshine tomorrow than today, but hinted there was a possibility of showers to mar the nuptial scene.

Following the yacht party, the bridal party will adjourn to the Nahant Club, where a reception will be given for Anne and John and their attendants, with a midnight supper served.

In accordance with tradition, Anne will sit out the wedding rehearsal, it being a superstition that participation by a bride is unlucky.

Her place in the rehearsal will be taken by one of the Roosevelt wives, possibly Mrs. Elliott Roosevelt, who will wear, in simulation of a wedding gown train, a trailing sheet.

ENGINEERING TRAIN

This will be to give the maid of honor a bit of practice in switching the train on the turns.

pew and watch the rehearsal—with what mixed feelings only she can tell.

Her turn will come tomorrow at high noon when, arrayed in her bridal gown—which John then will see for the first time—she stands beside him at the altar, repeating the solemn Episcopal ritual intoned by the Rev. Endicott Peabody, headmaster of Groton School, and Bishop Henry Knox Sherill of Boston.

Meanwhile, every last detail had been arranged for tomorrow's big event.

John had the wedding license right in his pocket. His bride's wedding finery and that of her attendants hung in readiness at the Clark home.

The colorful and unusual trousseau was delivered last night under police escort from a Boston gown shop, where scores of hands had labored for months in its creation.

Everyone from the youth who will pump the church organ to the two notable clergymen who will officiate at the nuptial service knows his part well.

One of the greatest police details in the history of the state, ranging from the President's personal bodyguards and Secret Service men to Metropolitan and Nahant police, were equally well drilled in every detail for the event which is expected to serve as a magnet for 250,000 well-wishers.

Excitement mounted this morning in Nahant but it was a care-free excitement—devoid of any tension. The first of the tents were spread on the lawn of the Nahant Club before an early-gathering throng of curious.

Inside, the comfort of every guest had been provided for. One of these guests is, of course, the President, who will be accorded a

John, Anne Enjoy Snack At Revere

John and Anne have the same tastes as any healthy young couple, when it comes to early morning roadside snacks.

Early today, their liveried chauffeur drove up at a Revere stand where John munched a hot dog with mustard, with a glass of milk, while Anne tackled a hamburger with catsup, and a cup of coffee.

John's hardy taste was shared by Charles McVeigh, a Harvard classmate and one of his ushers. Sally Clark, sister of the bride-of-tomorrow, joined Anne in a hamburger.

seat of honor—the big wicker chair of the club steward. A telephone has been strung to his side for Presidential convenience.

Almost the entire front of the clubhouse has been opened for free exit and entrance to greet the President.

The Roosevelts all were together in Massachusetts today—all save three. They sent neither their regrets nor acceptances.

Their names: Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, widow of the President, and her sons, Colonel Theodore Roosevelt and Kermit Roosevelt.

John, Anne Buy Bermuda Tickets

Despite John Roosevelt's assertion of last Saturday that he and Anne Lindsay Clark would spend their honeymoon in Europe, it was learned today that they have tickets for a sailing to Bermuda from Canada next week.

This would indicate that the bridal couple, to be married at noon tomorrow in Nahant, might spend at least part of the honeymoon at Vincent Astor's estate in Bermuda and then go to Europe.

It is believed also they will depart after the reception, for Campbell Island, New Brunswick, where the Roosevelts have had a summer lodge for years.

Roosevelts 'All Dolled Up'

What a well-dressed President and the First Lady wear on the way to their son's wedding:

Mrs. Roosevelt at South Station today: Navy blue dress with white-figured flower print, white pique collar, piping of pique showing around the vest near the neck, silver clasp ornament, navy blue gloves and blue hat with brim trimmed with white piping.

The President at Salem: Blue suit, pink and oyster tie, new cream-colored Panama hat and new haircut.

'Ex-Wife' Reality 3rd Time to Ursula

BRIDGEPORT, Ct., June 17 (UPI)—Katherine Ursula Towle Wildberg, of New Canaan, known to the public as Ursula Parrott, author of "Ex-Wife" and other works of fiction, today became an ex-wife for the third time. She was granted an uncontested divorce by Superior Court Judge Edwin C. Dickinson on grounds of irreconcilable cruelty from John Wildberg, New York attorney.

John, Anne Aboard Yacht

the President's special train pulled in at 9:45 a. m.

Windows of houses in streets on both sides of the yards were lined with hundreds of faces.

WELL GUARDED

Secret service men and state police closely guarded the big touring car which took the President from his train to the Potomac.

His personal bodyguard, Thomas Quarters, assisted him from train to auto and from the auto up a wooden ramp to the Potomac's deck.

Seated in the President's auto with him during the ride through Salem were his naval aide, Rear Admiral Walter Woodson, and his uncle, Frederic Delano.

Gray mists which had swept in off the gloomy Atlantic were lifting, as the Roosevelt special was deftly switched across Salem to the pier.

Potomac was ready for the President to go aboard.

NEW ALSO OUT

Stepping from train to automobile for the short ride to the pier head, the President cast a weather-wise glance at the sky.

It was blue and the sun was beginning to break through.

As the President was boarding the Potomac, where John and the bride-to-be, Anne Lindsay Clark, awaited him, other members of America's No. 1 family were meeting at breakfast in James Roosevelt's home at Framingham.

Guests there included Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, the President's wife; her son, Elliott; her daughter, Mrs. Anna Boettiger; Elliott's wife, Ruth, and Anna's husband, John Boettiger.

All five arrived at South Station aboard the Federal Express from Washington and New York.

Closely guarded by 10 secret service men and 20 Boston police officers, Mrs. Roosevelt's party in Boston was escorted to the Hotel Statler.

From there the trip to James Roosevelt's home in Salem End road, Framingham Center, was made by automobile.

Son James Roosevelt, in brown jacket and slacks, awaited his mother and her party on the lawn.

ARKS AFTER CHILDREN

He stood there patiently for 25 minutes, reading a newspaper.

As the Roosevelt guests arrived, in two automobiles, James' wife, charming young Betsy Cushing Roosevelt, came out of the house to greet them.

She wore a gray and blue cotton play suit, with shorts instead of a skirt.

First inquiry Mrs. Roosevelt made was for the health of James' little daughters, Sara and Kate.

Sniffly colds had kept them in bed yesterday. But today they were up and dressed and well again, their mother was happy to be able to say.

The breakfast at James Roosevelt's home was brief, for principal business of the day was at Nahant and all the Roosevelts were anxious to be on their way there.

The President's special train crossed the Massachusetts line at Webster at 7:05 a. m.

HEAVY POLICE GUARD

Several hundred persons and a heavy police guard stood by as the special halted at Worcester to change locomotives.

Curtains of the President's private car were drawn and the President did not appear.

Big, shining Locomotive 3704, crack engine of the Boston and Maine railroad, was coupled to the seven-car presidential train at Worcester, replacing the New Haven engine which had made the run from New York.

With Vice Engineer Fred D. Hatfield of Belmont at the throttle, James West of Melrose firing and Master Mechanic Earl E. Cross of Somerville standing by in the cab, the Roosevelt special slid out of Worcester so softly that the Presdent's sleep could not have been disturbed.

During the Worcester stop, the Roosevelt train was boarded by a delegation of Boston and Maine officials, headed by Vice President Herbert L. Haldwin and General Passenger Agent C. Fred Palmer.

Route of the train from Worcester to Salem was through Clinton, Ayer Junction, Concord, Waltham, Cambridge, Somerville and Everett.

At Tower A, Somerville, a quick stop was made to take aboard a yard pilot, whose responsibility it was to guide the train through the maze of switches between Somerville and Everett.

The President three times postponed his departure from the capital. He finally left Washington at 9:09 o'clock last night.

The extra nine minutes on the departure time were occasioned by the fact Mr. Roosevelt had to wait that much longer in his private car before word was telephoned to the station that the 75th Congress had adjourned.

He was bound in the railroad shed by the constitutional stipulation that only the President can formally adjourn a session of Congress.

Somewhat upsetting precedents of former years, the White House phoned Washington's Union Station that Congress had adjourned sine die.

President Roosevelt promptly sent back word, as required, that he "had no further business" for the legislators, and the special train pulled out.

'Battle of Bunker Hill':Kelly on Top In First Test

By ALFRED D. WHELTON

Boston's first traditional test of Democratic power saw Lieutenant-Governor Francis E. Kelly an easy victor today.

The test was at the municipal banquet in Charlestown armory that ushered in the night before celebration of today's Bunker Hill Day.

Behind the scenes was an interesting story of political intrigue that saw the youthful lieutenant-governor jockeying for position on the speakers' program with Governor Hurley and the veteran former governor, James M. Curley. Kelly finally outwaited Curley and was interrupted in his speech by Governor Hurley about five minutes after he had told the audience:

"The governor is touring the streets of Charlestown with his radio tuned in here to see what I will say. I challenge him to come here tonight."

CHEERS AND BOOS

After a few remarks on the significance of the celebration, Kelly was just announcing his "official greetings of the state in the absence of His Excellency" when Governor Hurley's presence was made known.

The chief executive was escorted to the speakers' table amid a mixture of cheers and boos, whereupon Kelly remarked:

"There is nothing better in Charlestown on the night before the 17th than a little verbal fireworks."

He then propounded a series of questions for the governor concerning the "closed door" meetings of the governor's council; the lowering of rates by the "millionaire power trusts," and the reason that loan sharks are allowed to charge 3 per cent a month or 36 per cent a year.

"CONGRATULATES" HURLEY

Cheers greeted him when he asked the audience after each question if they would like to hear them answered. And, as a parting shot, he "congratulated" the governor on "finally finding out there was unemployment in Massachusetts."

The latter referred to Governor Hurley's recent message to the Legislature for a $23,425,000 bond issue for relief of unemployment.

Another sprinkling of boos greeted the governor when he arose after several intervening speakers. Former Governor Curley, who was expected to give some inkling of his own plans, carefully skirted politics and spoke of the parallel of the ideals fought for during the Revolutionary days and the ideals of today.

and leaders of state and city, marched.

From Bunker Hill and Myrtle streets, the brilliant procession covered more than three miles, traversing spots which resounded with musket fire and cries of battle 163 years ago. More than 30 bands furnished music.

Dennis J. Swanson, veteran of three wars, was chief marshal of the event. His son, Samuel A. Swanson, a World War veteran, served as adjutant. Chief of staff was Daniel J. Coughlin, also a World War veteran.

Five divisions of 12,000 marchers joined to make the parade a thrilling spectacle of music and color.

Winners of the doll carriage parade contest were, in order of merit, Mary Monagle, 4½, of Bartlett street; Reed Janet Locke, three, of Monument square, and Edith Gallagher, six, of Green street.

The three-mile race was won for the sixth successive time by Tony Melillo, wearing Powers Club colors. Second and third, respectively, were William Carroll, Sweeney Associates, and John Kelly, unattached.

A trio of band concerts at 7 o'clock, at Emmons playground, Hayes square and Clarence R. Edwards School, will prelude the night celebration.

ANNUAL BALL

Block dances in Pleasant, Decatur and Belmont streets are scheduled for 8 o'clock and at the same hour, the annual Bunker Hill ball will be held at Winter Garden, City Square. "Miss Bunker Hill," most beautiful girl of the celebration, will be named during the ball.

Other attractions arranged for the throngs of visitors are the doll carriage parade at the Bunker Hill monument grounds, to start at 10 a. m., noontime swimming meet at Dewey Beach and championship baseball game after the parade at Barry playground.

At 4:30 p. m. the Equal Rights League memorial service will be held. Impressive exercises will take place at the foot of Bunker Hill monument.

Walsh Views Child Labor

WASHINGTON, June 17 (AP)—Senator Walsh (D.) of Massachusetts, who helped draft the wage-hour bill, expressed belief today that its child labor provisions would be upheld in a Supreme Court test.

This section of the bill, he explained, is almost as comprehensive as the child labor ban sought in a constitutional amendment, which so far has failed of ratification by three-fourths of the states. If the wage-hour bill is upheld, Walsh said, the constitutional amendment will be unnecessary.

Charlestown Hails Him:Lodge Pledges Navy Yard Aid

A new hope for increased employment at Charlestown Navy Yard, voiced by Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., while thousands cheered at Charlestown Armory, heralded today's Bunker Hill battle celebration.

First prominent Republican to take part in the "night before" festivities since his illustrious grandfather, the late Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, joined in the event, the youthful senator was given a long ovation when he rose to speak.

To every effort toward creating work at the Charlestown Navy Yard he promised his utmost support, pledging his backing of any program which will further Charlestown's progress.

In his impromptu address, Senator Lodge added that he opposed all armament construction programs except those for the purpose of defense in times of invasion by outside enemies.

He shared the spotlight with former Governor Curley, who gave an stirring speech on the significance of Bunker Hill Day and its inspiration in these times of economic stress.

Other speakers included Mayor Tobin, Lieutenant-Governor Francis E. Kelly, former Congressman Richard W. Russell, Congressman Thomas F. Flaherty, and district office-holders.

Bride Minus Million Plus Mate Equals Bliss

CANTON, N. Y., June 17 (TNS).—A million dollars she scorned to wed her accountant-sweetheart were of little interest to Rosemary Webster, 21, daughter of a New York eye specialist, and her 23-year-old husband, Paul Gilson, as they honeymooned today.

The newlyweds, married yesterday at Rochester despite parental threats of disinheritance, returned last night to this college town in which their four-month romance blossomed. They departed immediately for an unannounced des. on the eve of her graduation from St. Lawrence University after a stormy session with her parents, Dr. and Mrs. David H. Webster.

"She need not come home," commented Dr. Webster. "I shall never accept this marriage," said Mrs. Webster. "I've been experimenting with budgeting," said the bride, "and Paul and I can get along on what he earns."

ELSIE ROBINSON, writes from the woman's viewpoint, discusses every-day affairs and problems, regularly in the Boston American.

Off on Honeymoon

HAPPY BRIDE—Professor and Mrs. John H. Cutler leave Boston College Chapel after their marriage. Mrs. Cutler is the former Elizabeth Bell Kenney, daughter of Jack Kenney, circulation director of the Hearst newspapers in Boston.

Cutler, Bride Sail Tonight On Honeymoon

Relatives, friends and associates of her father filled St. Ignatius' Church yesterday afternoon when Miss Elizabeth Bell Kenney, daughter of John W. Kenney, circulation director of the Hearst newspapers in Boston, was married at Boston College to Prof. John H. Cutler of Dartmouth.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Francis V. Sullivan, S. J., with her father giving the bride away formally.

A reception followed at the home of her parents, 41 Lee road, Chestnut Hill, and tonight at midnight the couple will sail for Europe, to spend a week in Belgium and three months in Paris.

Miss Eleanor Kenney, a sister, was maid of honor for the bride; the two bridesmaids were Miss Marjorie Gishney of Brookline and Miss Elaine Jacobs of Detroit, and the flower girl was little Betty Monks of Waban.

John Cunningham of Sharon was best man, and the ushers were William and Philip Harty, John Deery and John Ahern.

Arthur O'Shea played the organ for the wedding music.

The bride wore cream satin under a lace redingote, and a caped veil with lilacs in the valley.

Dr. Cutler is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Cutler of Beacon street. He was graduated in 1932 from Harvard and from the Harvard Graduate School in 1936, and is in the Department of Romance Languages at Dartmouth.

The bride is a graduate of the Choate School in Brookline and from Lassell Junior College, Auburn-dale, in 1936.

To His Wife Rugg Leaves All

Written on common, ruled paper in his own hand 44 years ago this month the will of Chief Justice Arthur P. Rugg, of Supreme Court, leaving his entire estate to his wife, was filed today in probate court at Worcester.

Dated in June, 1894, the will states:

"I give, devise and bequeath all my estate, whether real, personal or mixed, to my beloved wife, Florence M. Rugg, to have and to hold to her and her heirs forever."

"I make this provision having fully in mind and affection for two children, Charles Belcher Rugg and Arthur Prentice, etc., and being thoughtful of the possibility of our having other children, as it is my will that my wife receive as over and in fee all my estate to the exclusion of my children."

"I have the fullest confidence in her wisdom and discretion and that she will be of more assistance to them having the entire control of all my estate."

No inventory of the estate was filed.

3 Accidents Here Cost U. S. $5004

WASHINGTON, June 17.—Checks totalling $5004 were drawn on the U. S. Treasury today for three Massachusetts claimants for personal damages sustained in accidents in which government-owned vehicles were involved.

Gladys Legrow of Chelsea was awarded $750 for injuries received when hit by a mail truck in Medford in 1934; Thomas H. Eckfeldt of Fitchburg $3684 for damages arising out of a collision with a National Park Service truck, and James Shimunkas of Gardner $1250 for injuries suffered when struck by a mail truck in 1932.

News Briefs

LOS ANGELES, June 17 (INS)—Marilyn Cantor, 17, daughter of comedian Eddie Cantor, was accused of negligent driving in a $30,192 suit on file today by Morris Levine and his 11-year-old daughter, Evelyn.

SHANGHAI, June 17 (AP)—Tung Tsiung-Sze, manager of the Bank of Communications and prominent in Chinese finance, was shot and killed today while walking in the French Concession.

LIMA, Peru, June 17 (AP)—The governments of Peru and Ecuador today freed prisoners and withdrew troop reinforcements they mobilized on the Napo river after a border clash.

MEXICO CITY, June 17 (AP)—Blaze-up of an old feud between citizens of two towns was reported today to have caused a battle at Yodolingo in which 19 persons were killed and 36 injured.

LOS ANGELES, June 17 (AP)—Madge Evans, film star, sought to prove to the federal board of tax appeals today that wages, photographs and entertainment are necessary to her profession and deductible from her taxable income. The government claims a tax deficiency in 1934 of $237.

NEW YORK, June 17 (AP)—Despite a plea for leniency, Max Silverman, 53, who was convicted on May 11 of conspiracy to obstruct justice in the Sam Druksman murder case, was sentenced today to year in prison and fined $500 a year.

NEW YORK, June 17 (AP)—A strike committee today verbally attacked the "medieval management" of the Bigelow-Sanford Carpet Company, whose plants at Amsterdam, N. Y., and Thompsonville, Ct., are closed by 6000 workers striking against a 10 per cent wage cut.

Daladier Ends Parliament

PARIS, June 17 (AP)—The French government today adjourned Parliament until November, gaining a free hand to rule the republic until then by decree without interference from the chambers.

Eduard Daladier, premier of the "National Defense" government, read a decree closing the session to a quiet Chamber of Deputies, dismissing the legislators before Communist demands for ending nonintervention in the Spanish war could arise again to trouble the cabinet.

These demands, embodied in a Communist resolution introduced in the Chamber, yesterday led to fist fights in which two Rightist deputies were injured.

Blowout Hurls 2 Into Court

A tire blowout in Lynn today dashed the hopes of two Charlestown youths to "grab" the President Roosevelt reception party at Natick and, as added misfortune, landed them in court on charges of drunkenness and larceny of an automobile.

The pair, Joseph A. Brady, 23, and James A. Kelly, 19, were held in 199 by Judge Philip A. Kiley for a hearing on Wednesday after a plea of not guilty.

According to police, the youths stole a car parked by a Norwood priest in downtown Boston, and used it to convey them around Charlestown last night to celebrate Bunker Hill Day eve.

Justice Field At Life's Goal

In Questioning Mood

Weighing Case

HIGH HONOR—Nominated
by Governor Hurley to succeed
the late Chief Justice Arthur
P. Rugg, Associate Justice
Fred Tarbell Field is shown here in two characteristic poses. Justice Field's confirmation by Executive Council was widely predicted today.

OUTING ON TUESDAY

The annual outing of the Back Bay Association will be held Tuesday at Weston Golf Club with a epicure program in the afternoon and the annual dinner at night.

Fred Tarbell Field, newly-appointed chief justice of the Massachusetts Supreme Court, today awaited his confirmation next week, while it was virtually assured that Assistant Attorney-General James J. Ronan would be named associate justice to fill the court's vacancy at about the same time.

Though it had been expected Ronan would be appointed to the court yesterday, legal provisions stipulated that the office of the late Chief Justice Arthur P. Rugg be filled before a new associate justice was named and the two appointments could not be made on the same day.

Concealing his happiness over his appointment beneath a quiet Vermont reserve, Justice Field today said he had no particular policies to declare but declared he would "do his best for the people of the state."

BOYHOOD AMBITION

His new position is the realization of a boyhood ambition to follow the footsteps of his uncle, Walbridge A.
Field, who held the chief justiceship of the supreme court from 1880 to 1896.

The jurist is 61 years old, with a calm bearing that personifies the traits generally attributed to Vermonters. He was born and lived his younger life in Springfield, Vt., only 30 miles away from the birthplace of the late Calvin Coolidge.

Most of his life is spent in diligent legal work, his main recreation simple walking. For "light" reading he applies himself to biographies and histories, finding little to interest him detective stories, which many of his brother judges pursue avidly.

BROWN GRADUATE

Graduated from Brown University, he became a lawyer in the Vermont general's office and two years later was made an assistant attorney-general. He became a specialist in tax problems and as such was appointed to the Bureau of Internal Revenue in Washington during the war.

He has lectured on law at Boston University, Harvard and Columbia.
He married Gertrude A. Montague, Cambridge school teacher, they have one daughter and make their home on Fairmont avenue, Newton.

Bride's Story Of 'Crime Honeymoon'

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., June 17.—The honeymoon was over today for a 17-year-old New Hampshire bride, her youthful husband and their best man as they perched from jail bars and told of the excitement which has been theirs since May 30.

Jailed for 29 days on vagrancy charges here are Harold Beland, 19, bridegroom; the former Kathleen Boyle, his bride, and 17-year-old Owen R. Forrest, all of Newport, N. H.

The girl probably will be sent home on July 3, it was said today by Corporal F. J. McDowell of the state police, but the two youths will be turned over to Batavia police on larceny charges.

Picked up after an alleged 4000-mile "honeymoon of crime," the trio said today that Beland and Kathleen were married June 8 by a hill-billy justice of the peace in Tennessee.

WAYSIDE WEDDING

It all started, the youthful bride declared, in Schenectady county jail, because Beland and the girl wanted to get married.

"We left home May 30 and drove to Massachusetts," said Kathleen. "We wanted to get married but couldn't in New Hampshire, so we thought we'd go south. Harold and Owen took turns driving."

"We went through Pennsylvania and Delaware, and I guess I saw more of the country than I'll ever see again."

"It was funny about the marriage. We went to a roadside stand in Livingston, Tenn., and asked where we could get a preacher. The man in the stand was very nice. He took us to a justice of the peace and said he'd known us for a year."

ONLY THREE ROBBRIES

"We had a regular hill-billy wedding, with a farmer justice for the preacher. There was corn whiskey, guitars, fiddles and everything. But I guess the others had more fun than I did. I don't drink."

Kathleen, according to police, said the boys robbed only three places, all in New York state, and they did that only for funds to get back home. She said she remained in the car each time.

State police here said, however, that they have been informed of petty thefts and burglaries by the travelers all the way down south and back again.

"We were on our way back to New Hampshire when the police picked us up," said the girl. "Harold was going to give himself up. When he finishes his term in the New Hampshire industrial school we are going to settle down."

Naval Cruise Ship Due Here Monday

NEW YORK, June 17 (AP)—The U. S. S. Arkansas arrived in New York today to prepare for the summer eastern cruise of college units of the Naval Officers' Training Corps.

Harvard students, among the 380 making the cruise, will board the ship at Boston on Monday.

Daily Bride And Divorce For Oil Heir

RENO, Nev., June 17 (INS) — James McDonald, III, 24, heir to oil millions, had succeeded today in astounding even blasé Reno, home of marital mixups.

A few hours after he was divorced by his girl-bride he was married to another girl; within 10 minutes he was divorced again, and today he will be wed to still another girl.

The youth is the grandson of James McDonald, pioneer associate of John D. Rockefeller in the founding of the Rockefeller oil fortune.

Young McDonald's marital troubles have been in the courts ever since he eloped to Elko, Nev., in 1932 with Alecia Brezee. At that time he was 18 and she 16.

JUDGE'S BUSY DAY

Alecia sued for separate maintenance, and the McDonalds filed a counter-suit for annulment on the grounds the elopers were under age.

Courts upheld the marriage. Meanwhile, Alecia had borne a baby girl.

Today, Alecia appeared before Judge Currier and obtained a divorce on the ground that young McDonald had deserted her in 1933 in San Mateo, Cal.

Shortly after the decree was granted, McDonald and Doris Marie Cunningham, formerly of San Mateo, were married by Judge Currier.

ANOTHER BRIDE TODAY

McDonald explained the second marriage and divorce were by prearrangement. When he expected his marriage to Alecia to be annulled several years ago he became engaged to Miss Cunningham, he said. The annulment failed to go through. It was to give their child a name that the brief marriage was executed, McDonald explained.

Nazi Boycott To Ruin Jews

BERLIN, June 17 (INS)—The Hitler government's orders that all Jewish-owned or controlled shops must hereafter bear special markers was viewed apprehensively today by Jews as the beginning of a boycott which will be a final mortal blow to their business in Germany.

Although the decree is to go into effect at once none of the requisite markers has been issued as yet by the government and it may be several weeks before an official design is approved.

The order, planned to serve as warning signals to loyal Nazis not to patronize such establishments, is the climax to the terrific new pressure brought against the Jews in recent weeks and is believed to be in retaliation for the Jewish white Jewish economic drive against Germany.

"MUST OUST JEWS"

The decree was issued by a committee composed of Rudolph Hess, deputy Nazi leader, Walther Funk, Reich minister of economics, and Dr. Wilhelm Frick, minister of the interior.

The order not only affects Jewish shops but strikes also at the Jewish stores in or part ownership of "Aryan" corporations.

Under the terms German enterprises must oust the Jews. And it was decreed that any firm which made that a special Jewish capital or with even one or two Jews on the board of directors will be considered as Jewish and must display a Jewish marker.

FUNK'S WORD LAW

The decree also requires that enterprises with Jews of foreign nationality or of foreign birth must register their businesses. This provision is expected to make the boycott more effective by forcing companies to register and to label the part of their business in which Jews are active. It is believed that the law will be enforced as strictly as possible.

That the law is the product of a long, isolated of Jewish business was indicated in a statement by Funk, the Reich minister of economics, in 1938. He said that the Nazi government had decided to oust the Jews from shops and businesses, arresting them and forcing them to contribute to the Jewish population of $200. It was reported that more than 200 Jewish businesses had been closed in Berlin alone.

'Free' Danzig Turns Law Against Jews

DANZIG, June 17 (INS)—Special police officers will be charged with the execution of the Danzig law against Jews, it was reported today.

A decree of the city by the Danzig government was due to the fact that the German government had reported to the city about the law.

HELD LIABLE ON NOTE

Thomas L. Greener of the Colony road, Newton, a director of the closed Boston National Bank, today stands liable on a note for $14,000 due to the bank receiver, according to an opinion rendered down in Judge J. C. H. Lusk's court in U. S. District Court.

She Had a Reason

PHILADELPHIA, June 17 (AP).—Dr. Edward David Judovich, awake today and found his wife, Dr. Golda R. Noble, 30, missing. He thought he knew why and started telephoning hospitals. Several calls disclosed nothing, until at the Women's Medical College Hospital he was told:

"She's here. Doing fine. A sis and one half pound baby." Dr. Noble, former legislative chairman of a birth control league, later commented: "I just slipped out of bed and drove my car to the hospital. No need of awakening Dr. Judovich. He needed his sleep."

GET THE "DROP" ON COSTLY CARBON

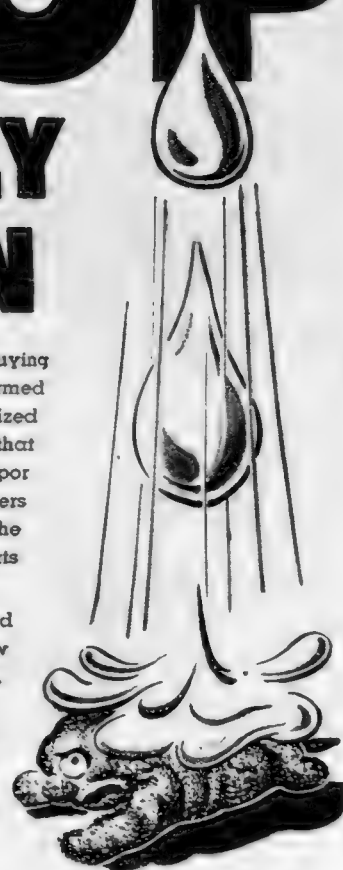

GIVE your car the continuous "drop" treatment by buying Jenney Solvenized Gasoline regularly. Carbon is formed whenever any gasoline is burned. But Jenney Solvenized contains thousands of tiny drops of gum solvent—drops that are released when the gasoline is burned. These tiny vapor droplets are deposited all over the inside of the cylinders and piston heads of your motor. They dissolve gum, the binder of hard carbon, and lubricate the upper parts of your motor.

When gum is dissolved, hard carbon becomes soft and fluffy, and the normal operation of your engine can blow it out the exhaust. Faster get-away, smoother operation, and far more mileage result.

Both Jenney Gasolines—Hy-Power and Aero—are Solvenized to give you this greater mileage, higher power, and the safer driving that Solvenized assures. Yet Jenney Gasolines cost no more. For full value use Jenney Solvenized regularly—and watch your driving costs go down.

FOR EVEN GREATER Savings

use Jenney Solvenoil with Jenney Solvenized Gasoline. Solvenoil is the Extreme Pressure oil which modern high-compression motors need. It forms a tough film over all moving parts, and gives you full protection at all driving speeds.

BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN

FRIDAY, JUNE 17, 1939

Bunker Hill Day

The ideals of the brave men who died in the Battle of Bunker Hill are NOT ENTOMBED in the towering obelisk that marks the conflict scene.

The ideals of these defenders of freedom and liberty are ALIVE. In the Constitution of the United States they find a HAVEN and an ETERNITY.

The Editor Says: One hundred and sixty-three years ago today 145 American soldiers and volunteers, fighting the British on Bunker Hill, Charlestown, laid down their lives that their families and descendants might live as FREE individuals in a FREE country.

They did not die in vain; the ideals they fought for, bled for and died for found EXPRESSION and IMMORTALITY in the United States Constitution.

Today, therefore, it is impossible to honor the heroes of Bunker Hill without also honoring the Constitution.

It is their real memorial.

There can be found nowhere a greater TRUTH than that the kind of government INTENDED in the Constitution alone offers justice and freedom, prosperity and happiness.

What else has given men and women as VAST A HERITAGE?

Where else are worship, speech and opinions RIGHTS, never to be trampled in the dust by those that govern?

TODAY'S OBSERVANCE of Bunker Hill Day comes at a fitting time, and certainly at a critical time for the United States.

The school of radical departure from American Constitutionalism has taken advantage of the nation's confusion and suffering.

Though the Constitution, in every word and every line, cries out against the setting up of an autocracy patterned after the oppressions and tyrannies of Europe, what do we find happening in America?

As the men who fought at Bunker Hill looked out over the countryside and saw the enemy, we of the present look out over our countryside, and what do we see?

We see a WPA Dictator, a Dictator of Agriculture, a Dictator of Foreign Trade Agreements and Tariffs, a proposed Dictator of Immigration, a Radio Dictator, a Dictator of Debts and Deficits, a Dictator of Patronage, a Dictator of Labor, a Dictator of Public Utilities and an assortment of lesser dictators.

Due to the fortunate waking up of Congress we barely escaped having a Dictator of the Supreme Court.

And due only to the Supreme Court, we have not a NRA Dictator who would have regimented every man, woman and child who tried to earn a dollar.

OUR BEST TRIBUTE to the men who sacrificed their lives for our liberty at Bunker Hill cannot consist of eulogies, of flag waving, of fireworks displays or of pilgrimages to the shaft that marks the scene of their deaths.

Our best tribute can consist only of renewed faith in American ideals and institutions and of a determination to return to the BASIC CONSTITUTIONALISM that has made possible all the greatness that our country has achieved.

Let us as worthy heirs of the men who died at Bunker Hill recommit ourselves to their ideals and resolve NOW to go back to AMERICANISM and BE AMERICANS, in spirit as well as in fact.

The Political Parade

By GEORGE ROTHWELL BROWN

WASHINGTON, June 17

BACK to the proposal of Senator J. Hamilton Lewis of Illinois for the abolition of the war debts "through mutual trade and mutual trade adjustments" is a considerably more than the usual "trade-billions".

There can be little doubt about what is really in the wind at that end of Pennsylvania avenue which is a pretty sure of the capital is an ardent cause for the constitution of the debts.

This is even more of a pet plan with Secretary Hull than a reciprocity treaty, and it is bringing economic ruin in their wake and threatening the domestic party with another split.

BACK of Secretary Hull stands the President, entertaining the same views. To hook up cancellation with "mutual trade adjustments" as Senator Lewis phrases it, is what is in the back of the mind of the affable free trader now running our international affairs.

The President and Mr. Hull are going to run up against a stone wall in Congress whenever they attempt to clear away the uncollectable European debts as part of a general fantastic dream of improving American foreign trade.

The word has been passed down the avenue more than once that Mr. Roosevelt must expect well-nigh unanimous opposition in Congress to any plan of abolishing the war debts.

THE huge war-busting expedition upon which the sanctified points are embarking in the eye of the campaign is already playing havoc with another New Deal objective, the cancellation of business.

I will be remembered that up-and-coming John W. Hanes of West street N. Y. and Main street, N. C., who has just been confirmed as the new assistant secretary of the treasury, has been the President's chief negotiator of business.

There is reason to believe that Mr. Hanes' enthusiasm, as he started with plenty, is rapidly waning.

It would occasion little surprise if he shook the dust of Washington from his feet before long.

Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

ONE of the things that takes all the joy out of life for a screen star is the sad fact that he cannot go about with a woman he admires without being promptly "married" to her by all the gossip-columnists.

The hardest thing on earth to make anybody believe is that a man can admire a woman and even love her, without wanting to spend his whole life with her. And that a woman can be positively disloyal to a man, without wanting to sign up to pour his coffee and darn his socks for the rest of her days.

Yet, a man can lose his heart without losing his head—or vice versa. And, while marriage should always mean love—love does not always mean marriage. Sometimes it is just a little passing case of vertigo.

The most dazzling women are those about whom a man dreams, but whom he would no more want to have around the house than a pet leopardess, or a trained tigress.

What of Today, Tomorrow?

Supervisor Tells Why Nurses Always Smile

In these columns yesterday, Mrs. Malcolm Green, noted club-woman of Newton, undertook the difficult task of defining Happiness.

Today this abstract condition is defined by another distinguished woman, Charlotte E. Greiner, R. N., B. S., supervisor of the surgical department and operating room at the New England Sanatorium and Hospital. As in the case of Mrs. Green, she has drawn from the store of her own experience, one to which the shadow of death is no stranger.

By PAUL WHELTON

Boston Evening American Staff Writer

Service is happiness—the joy of lending one's own time and strength to helpless sufferers—in the opinion of Miss Charlotte E. Greiner, registered nurse and surgical department supervisor at the New England Sanatorium and Hospital.

"There is true happiness and lasting satisfaction in submerging our lives in service for humanity," she told the Boston Evening American today.

"OF ALL THE VARIOUS VOCATIONS AND PROFESSIONS OPEN TO YOUNG PEOPLE TODAY, THERE IS NONE THAT CAN GIVE GREATER JOY AND SATISFACTION TO THE WORKER THAN THAT OF CARING FOR THE SICK."

"Nowhere is there a profession in which one comes so closely and intimately into contact with human beings—and if one will allow it, this very contact will bring out in him the very noblest characteristics."

"Many people think of the nursing profession as one which demands long hours and hard work. They prefer, and sometimes even demand, that their daughters enter some other work."

"It is true that sometimes the hours are long and the work tiresome. Every fibre of one's being, but no one better than the nurse herself can experience the satisfaction that comes from unselfish faithful service to a human who is sick in body and in spirit."

"FROM THE VIEWPOINT OF ONE WHO HAS WORKED IN AN OFFICE AS A

Miss Greiner

STENOGRAPHER AND BOOK-KEEPER AND WHO ALSO HAS SERVED AS A NURSE FOR SEVERAL YEARS, THERE NEVER CAN BE THE INSPIRATION AND THRILL IN TAKING DICTATION, RUNNING A TYPEWRITER OR STRIKING OFF A TRIAL BALANCE THAT THERE IS IN FIGHTING TO BRING A PATIENT BACK, ALMOST FROM THE GRAVE.

"Nor can mechanical work such as I have mentioned, in an office, ever compare to the joy and thrill that comes each time a nurse witnesses the miracle of a birth."

"As I look back over the years, my heart is filled with gratitude that I have been accorded the privilege of serving some of the patients in the New England Sanatorium and Hospital."

"EVEN IN THE SAD HOURS THAT SOMETIMES COME—AFTER MEDICAL SKILL HAS DONE ALL THAT IS POSSIBLE—THERE STILL IS COMFORT AND A CERTAIN PEACE IN THE KNOWLEDGE THAT THE DEERED ONES HAVE BEEN HELPED IN THEIR SORROW THROUGH KNOWING THE KINDLY MINISTRATIONS AND SYMPATHETIC UNDERSTANDING SHOWN THE ONE WHO FINALLY IS GONE."

"A certain college calls its doors 'The Gateway to Service.'"

"This is because one of the greatest reasons for the existence of that college is to give its young people an education that will develop their physical, mental and moral powers that when they go forth from the halls of their alma mater they do so with a determination to give unselfish service to their fellow men."

"The same mark might be placed above the door of every school, for nowhere is there given more in the way of unselfish service than in such institutions."

"At this sanatorium and hospital, specifically, the spirit of willing service, of sacrificing service that one sees manifested on every side, has sent thousands of patients back into the world with renewed strength, better health and a new outlook on life."

"AND WITH EACH PATIENT THAT DEPARTS THERE COMES A WARM FEELING OF HAPPINESS ON THE PART OF THOSE WHO HAVE HAD A HAND IN THE BATTLE TO BRING HIM OR HER BACK TO HEALTH."

"An outsider cannot imagine the feeling of joy and happiness in our hearts each time such a person returns here to visit friends made while under treatment."

"On each such return there comes back to us the picture of this patient, lying fearfully still, or tossing in restless delirium—and we unconsciously compare this picture with the better one immediately before us."

"Then are we repaid for the tense nerves, the long and weary vigils at the bedside, the querulous, sometimes delirious demands made upon us."

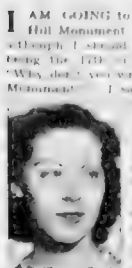

"Very recently a patient about to give birth to a baby was admitted to the hospital. This mother was in a most critical condition, making it necessary for surgical interference."

"A Caesarian operation was performed as the only recourse, and the lives of both mother and baby were saved, keeping the family circle unbroken."

"THE LIGHT OF HAPPINESS THAT SHONE IN THAT MOTHER'S FACE WHEN SHE FIRST LOOKED AT HER BABY COULD NOT HAVE HELPED BUT KIND REFLECTION IN OUR OWN FACES."

(In the Boston Evening American tomorrow will appear an answer to the question, "What is Happiness?" by another noted Greater Boston woman.)

Girl About Town ❖ by Ann Marsters

Ann Hastings

For instance, I have been very much troubled since I have shown I was once in a different world related to a single day, rather than an age, as the whole history of the place. But nobody was at home in Mr. Leavens' house. I was forced to find a hotel, and then to find a place to stay.

Anyway, Pioneer Hill Museum has one 254 step. The 100 steps of the hill were built in 1825 and turned into stairs and the stairs are 1 inch wide. There was a lot of traffic on the stairs and I had to go 7/15/84.

There has been little change in the process of the game except that some American tracks club has lost and lost the track of a white and these days pass were paid for what few but were if just that way performed mostly for fear of not there.

Listen, World! ❖ by Elsie Robinson

IS THE MACHINE man's foe or friend? Somebody brought that up again recently—we made a few irreverent remarks—and here's an answer that'll interest every American worker.

Do you see I. C. GALES of ELIZABETH, PA., as a technician employed by one of the largest corporations in the world,

"I work," says he, "if hours a day, seven days a week and on all 7 days a day, 7 days a week, a Saturday assistant and 10-12 hours a week, depending on where I work, mostly employed National I believe in machinery, through it I earn my living—but I am not going to let about the conditions it takes."

Eddie Robinson Then follows a letter, far too long to print, but containing as frank an exposure of our Machine Age as we've seen—an exposure as moving as any drama if you remember the human blood, sweat and tears...the weariness, fear and growing terror...which lies behind these stark statistics.

"We finished a new plant the other day," he continues. "The plant will produce as much in seven hours as formerly was produced in 16 hours. Power energy will be reduced by one-tenth in theory. Twelve men out of 60 will be discharged due to this 'progressive step,' most of these old men."

It seems, however, that there was not enough money to let it rise to the full height of 221 feet. But the women of New England managed to construct a tremendous bonfire to cover the additional height needed.

There was only one thing worse than that of a "very brave man" who was found to be a traitor. Will it not disgrace the men of New England to have the women furnish the punishment?

We still assume that you know all about the history and significance of Robert H. Merriam. But you heard the difference when you entered. It's signs with YOUR history, too.

FOR GRADUATES!

We have gotten away from the idea that we were to have a party and we have been able to have a meeting of our kind of people, to have a meeting of our kind of people.

Concluding, we remark that this is a good book. That is most of you be set at this work and increase your understanding to that of a Christian. We are that if any of you care to do so. All of us are glad to know that you will be full of joy with us and will be a great judgment on your part!

Goldblum: You are about to die, and you're going to be laid to rest for the last time and you're not into the world. It's an privilege and a honor to be given a few weeks of good life. They would want to harm because you will not change the trap.

They quote another person's remark: "Good Damon Runyon advice. If everybody always meant it, good!"

How is how would they ever be able to prove that? Was good? Well, we will just let that be said for those of us who have not heard him. I think it is not that long ago that I was in New York.

WHILE I FEEL the need to be a vocal participant in the last party, some members have either voted or are in the process of doing so but we are dealing with the fact that we have an extremely short period. If we scatter wherever the votes are, the chances of our being able to get to the stage at all are

Remember that it is good for all of them if the fish recognize that the food is always there. That the fish is always for activities. They are needed unless you have the fish as a pet. As a pet, a tank is a home. Even if the water is clean, the fish are not safe and not for the fish.

The important thing for you gentlemen was to get a picture of the world as it presents itself to the reader. We go step by step, first of all, to the things you are going to have to do, and then to the things you are now doing, and then to the things you are going to do.

We suggest that each of you independently select one of the papers we have as if it is your own paper, and then write the reader's comment to that paper. So you will be in a position to give an opinion on the paper.

IF YOU have a father who is working hard and cherish him. You will find him happy. Try to join up against what you get out into the world.

Speaking of fathers reminds us of our own and what he said to us when we were going out into the world. We have often told the story before, but perhaps some of you gentlemen may not have heard it and it may possibly contain a germ of wisdom that will help you in later life. Father took us out behind the barn and said:

Now I do not have any money or else I will let you to offer you and that you are not cut out you can. All I can offer you

WELL, gentlemen, of course we immediately forget the advice and as a result were soon banging out an ear. However, times have changed since we first went out into the world. Now the fellow offers to bet you it will be easier.

Gentlemen, the world out there is laying for the likes of you with a blackjack. From now on you are one to five against. The best we can make of the situation is that you are in for a lot of trouble the moment you poke your snouts out of these halls.

Maybe you better remain here a few years longer and get more education. The only drawback is that the next time you get a Commencement Day address it may be from a United States Senator. Gentlemen, we thank you.

Remedy For Unpromising Love Affair

By BEATRICE FAIRMAN

Children stay children, even in the modern day and age. The childishness of this matter is evident in the fact that it is a story of a young man's love.

DEAR MISS FAIRMAN:

Your letter about my love affair has been very helpful. I am sure that you have not only helped me but also many other young men.

I am a young man who is 21 years old. I was born in Boston and I am now living in the city. I am a student at the University of Boston and I am very interested in my studies.

When I was 18 years old, I met a girl who was 19 years old. We became very close and I fell in love with her. She was very beautiful and she was very kind. We were together for a year and a half and then she left me.

Cleansing Cream Veneration Special

DEAR ARLINE: I am sure that you will find this cream very helpful. It is a very good cream and it is very cheap. I am sure that you will find it very helpful.

DEAR MARIE T.: I know of one that is almost as light as whipped cream and it is the best little cleanser you want if you like to be gentle with yourself and skin on girls of it.

Master of fact, you may not have realized it but you're eating your skin a beauty treatment suffering for such frequent cleansing. You'll be a more beautiful girl by fall if you keep it up. The cream I mean is now to be had on a dollar special for a bucket of a jar—enough to last you all summer. It's perfect to use where several girls dip into it but use one jar all your own. Cream every other day or so. I'll earn its name phone me at Liberty 1000, with 10¢ in advance, enclosing a stamped self-addressed envelope.

YOU CAN BE BEAUTIFUL New Polish-Remover Pads Good for Cuticles, Nails

JUNE LANG touches up the edges of her manicure deftly . . . what with the aid of a touch-up and the speedy polish-removing pads Arline Gould describes today your manicure can be perfection at all times . . . your nails need never let you down!

By ARLINE GOULD

IT'S FUN to paint fingernails until they look like flowers . . . it's fun to make them look like crimson tulips, pink roses, and flaming orange like the exotic fruit of the tangerine tree . . . but it's no fun to face a peeling, chipping coat of polish or scrub it off with a harsh liquid that wears down the nail and cuticle no good!

One who used a new type of polish remover that cleans and polishes the nails and the skin around them, you'll find it a drudgery class. You'll have better colored nails and they'll be taken care of because these polish-removing pads that we've been using are a treat of a kind.

Ingenuous is the word for the tall cylinder of glass with gay vermillion top—a pattern to simulate the look of a champagne glass. Rheumatism Serious Disorder

By ROYAL S. COFFLAND, M.D.

A RHEUMATISM patient who inquires what is meant by "rheumatism" is told that it is a very serious disorder. It is a disease of the joints and it is a disease of the blood.

Almost the entire population of the United States has been affected by rheumatism. A knowledge of the disease and how to prevent it is of the greatest importance.

Although rheumatism is a very serious disorder, it is not a disease of the joints. It is a disease of the blood. It is a disease of the blood.

The young victim first has fever, loss of weight and weakness. These are the first signs of the disease. It is a disease of the blood.

Another Austro-Bohemian French territory dominating a Boston scene this week is a young Syrian headmaster of Dan Amos English School. Young Amos, a native of the mountainous north of the Mediterranean sea, is a person who gets along with the police, though he does not like them, and is a good friend with the Twenty-first Century Club, a which has provided him with a steady position. He is a native of the village of Dan Amos, Syria, and is a member of the Syrian community in Boston. He is a member of the Syrian community in Boston.

Amoske and Yarnall and brothers who operate the American steel fabricating and engineering works at 1000 Broadway, New York City, are the only ones in the country who have failed to pay for and remove gas in their steel.

The brothers meet her and are quickly enchanted by her. They come to Nimrod's castle and find a long list of suitors, none of whom is strong enough to best her in a fight.

Heavy Jewish Vote Predicted

Baruch's plan for the "fourth" Jewish conference of the United Nations, scheduled for June 7-10, 1948, at the American Jewish Conference Center in New York City, was to bring together the Jewish representatives of the United States, Great Britain, France, the Soviet Union, and the Arab League, as well as representatives of the Jewish Agency for Palestine and the Jewish National Council in Jerusalem. The plan was to discuss the Jewish position on the Palestine problem, and to seek a solution that would be acceptable to all parties concerned.

Pastor Says He Will Score Kayo

Bob Tells of Boxing Plans

By JACK CONWAY

TING-A-LING!

"New York calling Mr. Boston," said the young lady on the telephone at this office.

"Hello, New York," I declared. "I am ready to talk."

"This is Jimmy Johnston," said the voice over the wire. "I am in the gym with Bob Pastor, and he wants to tell you how he is going to knock out Al McCoy at the Boston Garden on next Monday night."

I told Jimmy to put Pastor on the wire.

"I am just about to start my last boxing drill for the McCoy fight," asserted Pastor. "I am anxious to start my Boston ring campaign by stopping McCoy. I recently returned from California where I won three straight bouts. I have had seven matches since the first of the year, and believe activity has improved my timing and punch."

"I'm sold on the idea I can knock out McCoy. I intend to make a fight out of it from the opening gong, and I don't think your New England champion will be able to stand the fast pace I am going to set. They tell me McCoy likes to punch it out with an opponent. I hope he tries to do so on next Monday night for it does me no harm."

he will be chilled quickly.

"I am sure the fight would win the championship for me," said Jimmy Johnston, New York, on next Wednesday night.

"Schmeling will knock Louis out," was the quick reply. "I don't think Louis is much of a fighter, and if you move on him a bit he cannot hit. He didn't hit me with a solid punch during our ten-round bout in New York a year ago last winter. The fact the champion refused to give me a return match proves he hasn't got too much confidence in his own ability."

"I don't think Louis will be able to get out of his mind the thought that Schmeling knocked him out in their last bout. Joe will be scared stiff the first time Schmeling nods him with a right hand punch to the jaw. I look to see the bout over inside of seven or eight rounds with Schmeling the winner."

"I would then like to meet Schmeling. Max is easy to hit, and has trouble nailing a fast moving heavyweight with his right as was shown when he was beaten in his last bout with Jack Sharkey. I would hit Schmeling with a million left hands, and then rock him to sleep with my right."

"I'll be seeing you in Boston. I'm leaving for Boston tonight in the company of Jimmy Johnston."

I AM interested in the professional ring debut of Joe Lubin, Boston's American heavyweight champion against Mark Lavoie, of this city, in a special four-round bout on the Pastor-McCoy card. Lubin proved a sensation in the Eastern and grand national finals of the Heats. All America tournament. His victory over Frank Chmielewski, of Hyde Park in the Eastern finals was the most brilliant battle of the entire tournament. It had the crowd cheering frantically from the time the first punch was delivered until Lubin left the ring, the winner.

In the final of the heavyweight class in the grand nationals, Lubin won from Joe Hill, of California. Hill is the deaf mute who has shown to much good advantage in amateur bouts on the Coast.

Lavoie is a sturdy youngster, and will give Lubin a severe test. One is certain to see some free punching in this tussle.

Henry Chmielewski of Warsaw, Poland, former Olympic champion will also appear on Monday night's card. He will have Charlie Ross of this city as an opponent in a four-round bout.

Chmielewski was brought to the United States by Stanislaus Zhyznsky, former world's heavyweight mat king. Zhyznsky has been training the youthful Polish middleweight at Kelley & Hayes' Gym, and has him ready for his meeting with Ross.

When Chmielewski showed in Chicago and Kansas City a year ago as a member of a Polish boxing team that toured the United States, he was a sensation. The youngster hopes to eventually win the world's middleweight title that is held by Freddy Steele of Seattle.

Steele returned to the fistie wars on the Coast the other night, and won the duke over Solly Krieger of Brooklyn at the end of ten rounds. Steele was out of boxing for several months with a back injury, but is once more prepared to take on all-comers.

If Chmielewski has what it takes, he should be ready for the champion by the latter part of next year.

It is likely that Steele's first important title defense match will be against Henry Armstrong who recently won the world's welterweight title from Barney Ross. Armstrong is signed to clash with Lou Ambers, lightweight champion, on July 26, but he says that after he gets through with Ambers he will be prepared to invade the middleweight division. A cocky little fighting man is the brilliant Armstrong.

Glove Plan Of Louis' Ires Max

ST. LOUIS, Mo., June 17.—Max Schmeling, best known for his fight with Joe Louis, for the first time in his career, today openly avowed his intention of using gloves in his fight with Louis on Monday night.

"I will not stand for this glove," Schmeling declared. "The gloves I have used in all my American fights ought to be good enough for this fight."

"This glove would give Louis a decided advantage—he would be striking it in my eyes all night long, maybe."

Schmeling had pointed out that the gloves he wore by him and Louis, also an emergency set, already are in Great Britain for inspection, and that he has the boxing commission chairman's promise that there will be no change from the customary New York glove to any new type matter.

Max Schmeling

for the road party. The German will fight Louis on Monday and Tuesday and will leave for New York Tuesday.

Dempsey Sees Flaws In Louis' Boxing

TOMPTON LAKES, N. J., June 17.—Joe Louis' early in his first rounds of sparring with two of the best checkers in the game, Dempsey and Jim Howard, a crowd of 10,000 which included Jack Dempsey and Jim Howard, watched the workout.

Dempsey asked for the reason for the change of the fight was a controversy, himself with the suggestion that the Negro heavyweight champion was a mopey and slow, and it would be a waste of a fight.

"If he expects to beat Schmeling, though, he'll have to go in and fight harder than he did here," added the Mauler. "Also, he had better keep his chin down a little better."

Boxing Results

PORTLAND, Me.—Paul Junior, 135, Lemmon, took newspaper decision from Johnny Morris, 135, New York, 10 rounds. Monmouth Jackson, 145, Lynn, took four-round decision from Peter Tarpley, 145, Albany, Ga.

BANGOR, Me.—Ruth Wheeler, 135, Rockland, and Ray Worcester, 135, Bangor, battled in ten-round draw in Maine heavyweight championship bout.

VANDY AIDS BEES' GATE

Two weeks ago last Sunday, the Bees' giant double header drew the largest crowd that has trickled to either of the local ball parks this season. . . . Weather permitting that mark will be broken this Sunday when the Bees engage the Cincinnati Reds in a double bill, for Johnny Vander Meer will pitch one of those games. . . . After his two no-hit, no-run games in a row Vander Meer is baseball's greatest attraction. . . . There are three years.

stern working out with the Bees today who were graduated from high schools this week. They are Sebastian Sisti, Buffalo, N. Y.; Old Road Hosanne, Rapids, N. Y.; and Jim Conner, Cranston, R. I. . . . Conner is a nephew of the Bees' versatile veteran. He is a son of John's older brother, Harry, and much bigger than his uncle. . . . He commemorates the 25th anniversary of Francis Timmer's greatest achievement, winning the United States open championship. The Country Club will honor the veteran golfer in September. . . . Tony Ayer, Athol High School's great southpaw, will show Brookline High the best brand of plucking any of the Shoe City players have ever faced tomorrow afternoon at Fenway Park. . . . Tony has struck out no less than 216 batters in 104 innings. . . . Because he is no longer listed among the Baseball's Big Six, Joe Medwick is missing plenty. . . . Sees Pastor Kayo Victor Over M'Coy Jimmy Johnston, manager of Bob Pastor, thinks his man will win in a tangle over Al McCoy, New England heavyweight champion, when they collide Monday night at the Goodwin A. C. boxing show.

Spouting off to Matchmaker B. Valenti today, Johnston said among other things:

"Pastor is the greatest young heavyweight in the business. Mike Jacobs knows it. Joe Louis knows it. The world will know it within a year."

"Jacobs has never had any love for me and even less for Pastor since the night he showed up in Louis in New York. Pastor, then a mere novice, whistled through 16 rounds with Louis and came near ruining Mr. Jacobs' million-dollar magnet."

This being a holiday for Schmeling directs his own program, the only item of excitement consisted of a broadcast in the reception room, where the challenger and his royal retinue, exhausted a few tactful notings about being in the best of health.

"Heads set a luge boat he doesn't like soap," Max Machon told the waiting world.

A polite and rather stylish crowd sat around the walls, and even the fight journalists, who normally get frowzed up and copy the ushvel of their pugilistic matters, were not readily discernible by leaving, dress or earmarks from the paying guests of the resort.

Later an emissary of the New York Boxing commission brought up a pair of fighting mittens with unaturally long thumbs which Louis was desistous of wearing and which Schmeling promptly vetoed. He feared frankly that the elongated thumb upholstery was for exchanging purposes and wished none of it.

So we are lending a cordial if singular life from which we will shortly return to the not too cheerful realities in the New York end. What kind of a light camp do you call this? Not even an ex-tempting of a French toast has been seen about the place.

Ump Aids Vandy In No-Hit String

By WALTER KILEY

When Umpire George Parker waved Vince DiMaggio "out" at first in the fourth inning of last Saturday's game between the Bees and the Cincinnati Reds, none in the Crosley Field stands had any idea that the arbiter was aiding Johnny Vander Meer to a record unparalleled in diamond history.

For rabbit DiMaggio, even positionless pitcher, though Vance had easily beaten Lou Gehrig's record, that the Bees was safe by something like a half inning. If Parker had taken the position of DiMaggio's, and the umpire at the time had no idea that he was watching a pitcher, the first of two successive Vander Meer would not be Dutch Hero No. 1.

Frank McClellan, manager of the Boston Braves, said that the umpire's decision was a "big" one, and that it was a "big" one, and that it was a "big" one.

"I was so intent with catching the ball and keeping my foot on the bag that I couldn't tell whether Vin was in there or not," he said.

But DiMaggio was not the only one who was "out" at first. The umpire's decision was a "big" one, and that it was a "big" one.

Vandy's No. 1 Fan

WHILE JOHNNY "NO-HIT" VANDER MEER can set down the opposing sluggers without a single hit for two games, Lois Stewart can make a hit with him any time she faces him. Vandy is showing his No. 1 fan (yes, his girl friend) the ball with which he hurled himself to baseball fame. He pitched two no-hit games within four days, the first against the Bees in Cincinnati last Saturday and the second against the Dodgers last Wednesday night in Brooklyn.

Trosky, Hemsley Back in Lineup

CLEVELAND, June 17 (AP)—Hal Trosky, slugging first baseman and Rollie Hemsley, catcher, have returned to the Cleveland lineup.

Recurrence of a knee injury benched Trosky Wednesday and he had expected to be out for an indefinite period.

Grace, Taylor Shift Uniforms

COLUMBUS, O. June 17 (AP)—The Columbus Red Birds today traded catcher Earl Grace for outfielder Danny Taylor of Minneapolis in a straight trade transaction. The Columbus Club also announced Mike Ryba, who catches, had been obtained on option from the parent St. Louis Cardinal club.

Walking With Champion Brighton Two Rivals Clash

THE OL' MANASSA MAULER, Jack Dempsey, is probably telling Champion Joe Louis how to avoid Max Schmeling's dynamite right, which pickled him the last time they met.

WATCH OUT JOE!—There will be more power to Max's. Here Joe is about to take a straight left jab on the whisker. Joe must be neglecting his defense for left-hand punches.

JOE LOUIS is showing perfect fishing form as he dangles a line in Pompton Lake. Let's hope he doesn't take this form into the ring on June 22.

Schmeling

Refuses Test

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., June 17 (AP)—Right in Max Schmeling's Speculator camp, science has demonstrated through an "electric eye" device how fast a boxer's arm can move.

But the German challenger for Joe Louis' heavyweight title would have no part of it. General Electric engineers said today, just this information, prove useful to the Brown Bomber.

Schmeling's 160-pound sparring partner, Al Albini, has a right fist speed of 42.2 miles an hour, the device showed. The best spectators could do was 20 mph.

The testing apparatus requires more than a dozen vacuum tubes of various types and two photo-cells, or electric eyes. An electric meter calibrates the time required in intercepting the two light beams, which are about a foot apart, and a chart interprets the time in miles per hour.

Patty Beaten In Western

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo.

June 17 (INS)—An abrupt halt to the march of truck-faced Patty Berg, brilliant 20-year-old Minneapolis golfer, toward another championship was effected in the quarter final of the women's western open golf tournament at the Broadmoor course.

Defeated by Patty only last week in the Trans-Mississippi final at Tulsa, Mrs. Opal B. Hill, veteran Kansas City star, reversed the decision this time and sent the Minnesota red-head out of the title running in a blistering match that went 19 holes.

Advancing to the semifinals with Mrs. Hill was pretty Beatrice Barrett, also of Minneapolis, who defeated Shirley Ann Johnson of Chicago, the Illinois State runner-up last year, 2 up.

Helen Hofmann of Salt Lake, former Utah champion, eliminated another Chicagoan when she defeated Bernice Wall by 2 and 1 score.

In the final match, Mildred Babe Didrikson of Beaumont, Tex., the only professional left in the tourney, defeated Phyllis Buchanan of Denver, the Colorado champion, 3 and 1.

Sky Raider

New Turf Star

NEW YORK, June 17 (AP)—A six weeks' search for a name for a son of Man o' War—Top Flight, born on Kentucky Derby Day, ended today when a committee of three selected "Sky Raider" out of more than 12,000 suggestions received by the New York World Telegram.

C. V. Whitney, owner, William Woodward, chairman of the Jockey Club, and Frank Ortel, turf writer, decided on the name after a narrowing the list down to seven.

Lefty Grove Solved Vander Meer Problem

NEW YORK, June 17 (INS)—Johnny Vander Meer, the author of the only two straight no-hit, no-run games in the 99-year history of baseball, today is basking in the white-hot sun of national fame, opening sheafs of congratulatory telegrams and sorting out bids for commercial endorsements and radio appearances that will net him anywhere from $10,000 up in the next few weeks.

Manager Bill McKeehan of Cincinnati figures the no-hitter eventually will be worth at least half a million dollars to the ball club.

But above and beyond any financial consideration is the spiritual value of the no-hitter to Johnny himself and the rest of the team.

CHANGED MAN

A week ago, Johnny was just another left-hander, good, but by no means great. Today he is an established star; confident, assured, poised; the bellwether of the McKeehan pitchers; and the hope and inspiration of his teammates.

Today, also, we find an amazing change of sentiment among the Reds. They were hoping they might finish in the first division. Today they are openly boasting that they will win the pennant—and all because of those two no-hitters.

"Why not?" they demand in belligerent tones. "We have the best pitching in the league and more power than either the Giants or the Cubs. Just watch us go from now on."

LOMBARDI KNOWS

Big Ernie Lombardi—who has the distinction of being the only catcher ever to work behind the plate in two successive no-hitters—gives you some real inside dope on the pitcher he now calls the Dutch Master.

"Although he's by far the fastest pitcher in the league, he's a cinch to catch," said Ernie today. "I caught both Van Mungo and Bazy Vance when I was with the Dodgers, but Johnny's just as fast as they ever were."

"His high hard one really takes off and as for his hook—well, you saw how he was breaking it off on those Dodgers. Change of pace? Hell, no. What does a kid like him need a change of pace for. All he's got to do is pour it through there and he does."

"Funny thing about him—he came along overnight. Bill (McKeehan) and Lefty Grove were talking about him one day down south this spring and Bill asked Lefty what was wrong with the kid."

Lefty told him that he was wild just like he used to be and he showed the kid that wind-up he's got. That's all it took to make him a great pitcher. Because that brought him control. Lefty showed him how to let the ball go a little later—from down here instead of away up here—and once he learned that, he started shooting that fast one in low, and, oh boy, he can pour it in there."

GOT EVERYTHING

"He's got everything he needs—speed and curve and heart—and he'll never get well-headed. Why is he easy to catch? Because he throws a light ball. A kid could catch him. I just called for what I wanted him to pitch and he gave it to me."

Dizzy's Sore Arm Not New to Boss

ST. LOUIS, June 17 (AP)—It wasn't a case of "caveat emptor" (let the buyer beware) when the St. Louis Cardinals sold Dizzy Dean to the Chicago Cubs, because it appears the buyer was warned to beware before he bought.

Dean's sore arm has given rise to rumors that Owner Phil Wrigley of the Cubs will seek to recover part of the $185,000 purchase price in event the pitcher's career is ended. The reports have been wholly without verification from Wrigley.

President Sam Breadon of the Cardinals, backed about the situation, said today there was "no deception or hocus pocus" in the deal and, "Furthermore, Mr. Wrigley has never made one complaint about the matter."

"Before the deal was made," Breadon explained, "we presented a statement as to Dean's arm. In it we pointed out that Dean had a sore arm last year and his record showed it. We also added that he had a sore arm in training camp this season."

"We had Wrigley's agent, Clarence Kowland, read that statement over long-distance telephone to Mr. Wrigley. We told him if he still wanted Dean after that, he could have him."

"There was no deception or hocus pocus. Furthermore, Mr. Wrigley has never made one complaint about the matter."
